

Highly Qualified Teacher Report

Lovelady ISD 2010-2011 Public Notification of Teacher Quality

The Federal No Child Left Behind (NCLB) accountability system requires districts to monitor and report the qualification status of teachers as defined by No Child Left Behind legislation. The Lovelady Independent School District is committed to having 100% of classrooms filled with “highly qualified teachers.”

To be considered Highly Qualified under NCLB, secondary teachers must demonstrate mastery of each course they teach through either possessing a degree in the subject, or passing a specific state examination of content knowledge. In LISD, 100 percent of secondary teachers meet this standard.

At the elementary level, teachers are considered Highly Qualified through demonstrated mastery of elementary school pedagogy and knowledge of reading, writing and mathematics instruction. In LISD, 100 percent of teachers meet this standard.

This information reflects classes taught on all LISD campuses, including the high-poverty and high-minority campuses. LISD will continue to recruit the best qualified applicants for all vacant positions.

Lovelady Independent School District provides high-quality professional development training for 100% of our teachers and other instructional staff. All LISD academic core teachers participate in high-quality professional development training. It is the district’s goal to recruit fully certified and highly qualified teachers for our students.
